WHY is Cultural Competence Essential to How Juvenile Justice and Rehabilitation (JJ&RA) Provides Services?

The “Why” for promoting and supporting both individual and organizational cultural competence in JJ&RA is simply that whoever comes through our doors for service is entitled to receive respectful and appropriate treatment and services.

Research shows that social determinants, socioeconomic level, education, age, orientation, mental, physical, behavioral, cultural, ability, racial/ethnic discrimination, and social injustice continue to influence the level of services provided throughout all domains in society. Disparate outcomes experienced by members of the communities we serve can be significantly improved by individual and organizational adherence to standards that enhance culturally and linguistically appropriate standards for delivery of services. (Dept. of Cultural & Human Services, ODPHP, 2010a)

The current JJ&RA Cultural Competence Plan, 2014-2016, represents the third phase of comprehensive Equity, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI) Plan initiatives started in 2010 by the then, Juvenile Rehabilitation Administration. The focus was on setting up structures, policies and practices to hold the enterprise up to standards and clear expectations for accountability and transparency with the communities we serve.

Juvenile Rehabilitation created an initial cultural competence plan after a cultural audit, assessment, and detailed analysis.

The initial plan in 2010 resulted in changes in policies, procedures, risk behavior assessments, youth and family participation processes, racial/ethnic impact reviews, and youth cultural groups. The administration established standards for disaggregated data collection, analysis, workforce recruitment, hiring, leadership development, diversity training, policy reviews, community collaboration and communication that improved the quality of care and services for our customers.

Our current plan includes Phase III of JR’s Cultural Competence Plan and the initial plans for the Special Commitment Center (SCC) and the Division for Vocational Rehabilitation (DVR).

In support of the Governor’s initiative to implement the national Enhanced Culturally and Linguistically Appropriate Service Standards (CLAS) statewide, JJ&RA has framed its current plan to demonstrate our goals, activities and outcomes within the categories defined to advance and sustain CLAS standards in all JJ&RA services, treatment and business practices.

Introduction

The Juvenile Justice and Rehabilitation Administration (JJ&RA) believes youth and adults deserve opportunities for rehabilitation and achieving self-sufficiency. We create pathways for individuals by developing meaningful partnerships with community employers, schools, and mentors; creating new opportunities for skill development and personal growth, and providing effective and safe treatment services. Through our values of excellent service, commitment to our customers’ best interest, community safety, collaboration with families and community partners, social justice, and a focus on positive outcomes, JJ&RA serves a wide range of individuals through its diverse programs including:

- Juvenile rehabilitation services in residential and community programs for the top 3-5% most serious juvenile offenders in the state juvenile justice continuum
- Vocational rehabilitation services for over 12,700 individuals with disabilities a year throughout Washington
- Community safety, specialized treatment, and rehabilitation services for civilly committed individuals at the Special Commitment Center
- Support and technical assistance for the full juvenile justice continuum via the Office of Juvenile Justice (OJJ)

Juvenile Rehabilitation (JR) offers juvenile justice programming and services designed to increase the youth’s skillful behavior, to prepare youth for productive lives, as well as to assist families as they support youth re-integrating into home and community.

The Division of Vocational Rehabilitation (DVR) serves eligible individuals with all types of disabilities who want to work and need individualized employment services and counseling to overcome barriers to employment that result from a disability. Individuals are eligible for services if they have a physical, mental, or sensory disability that results in an impediment to employment and they require vocational rehabilitation services to become employed. DVR also provides technical assistance and training to employers about the employment of people with disabilities.

The Special Commitment Center (SCC) manages and provides residential treatment to individuals who have been civilly committed by the court upon completion of their criminal sentence. SCC provides services to residents in a manner that promotes both individual rehabilitation and maintains community safety. The setting and structure of the SCC programs balances the primary goal of effective treatment with community safety.

The Office of Juvenile Justice (OJJ) promotes partnerships in building family and community capacity to prevent delinquency. OJJ provides analysis and technical assistance to state and local policy makers through collaborations with each aspect of the juvenile justice continuum, including youth, families, law enforcement, judges, court, detention and county administrators. OJJ is responsible for monitoring adult and juvenile secure facilities to ensure youth are afforded the core protections provided for in the Federal Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Act. OJJ works to ensure that the state identifies and makes efforts to reduce racial and ethnic disparities in the juvenile justice system.

JJ&RA is an active partner in Governor Jay Inslee's Results Washington, a specific, comprehensive effort to create effective, efficient, and accountable government. JJ&RA also works with statewide organizations, commissions, and departments committed to providing quality services to Washington's diverse population. The DSHS service vision, mission values and goals serve as the foundation for JJ&RA's focus and business strategy.

JJ&RA is an active proponent of ensuring fairness, embracing difference and promoting participation in our business practices. Demonstrated through principles and policy, our evolving initiatives and accomplishments reflect our commitment to the ideals of equity, diversity and inclusion.

So far in 2014, JJ&RA has accomplished the following cultural competence, equity, diversity and inclusion related activities:

- Hosted a statewide forum among justice professionals, including law enforcement, court administrators, judges, and community organizations to identify data informed strategies to address disproportionality and disparity
- Contributed to the Diversity and Inclusion curriculum included in the Leadership Excellence Workshops for DSHS management
- Developed and published landmark policy for the State of Washington to protect and support LGBTQI youth in the juvenile rehabilitation system. This policy is currently being reviewed as a guide for adopting similar policy throughout the state's juvenile justice system and other child-focused administrations and advocate organizations
- Established Quarterly Reporting of Workforce Diversity outcomes resulting in increased percentages in hiring retaining and promoting diverse staff throughout the enterprise
- Increased operational diversity and inclusion practices through expanded youth, family and community customer participation in forums, on conference panels, and in activities measured in the strategic plan

The current JJ&RA Cultural Competence Plan, 2014-2016 represents PHASE III of the Administration's Equity, Diversity & Inclusion Initiative – which includes evaluation and updates of completed Phase II activities as well as planned action steps for development, implementation and measurement of goals to address the needs of our customers in a diverse and ever-changing environment.

Background

Phase I – initiated in 2010, by DSHS Assistant Secretary for JJ&RA, John Clayton. This phase focused on identifying funding to develop, implement, and sustain enterprise-wide inclusion initiatives in support of addressing disparity and disproportionality. With partial funding from the Models for Change MacArthur Grant for Juvenile Justice focused on reducing Disproportionate Minority Contact and identifying ways of working with internal and external consultants, the courts, law enforcement and legislators, JJ&RA launched a series of steps to:

1. Evaluate service delivery across race and ethnicity
2. Identify decision points and data needs related to disproportionality and disparity experienced by youth of color in the state's juvenile justice system
3. Develop a Strengths-Weaknesses-Opportunities-Threats Assessment with recommendations to mitigate disproportionality and disparity

PHASE II – Started in 2012, completed the objectives specified in Phase I, initiated the development and implementation of enterprise-wide inclusion programs and started an intentional focus on increasing the diversity and engagement of the JJ&RA workforce. In Phase II, JJ&RA established a baseline for future measures and helped to build the business case for inclusion of Diversity & Inclusion as organizing principles into the administration's Strategic Plan and measures of success.

The JJ&RA Diversity & Inclusion Resource Group, with representatives from each division, was formed to:

- Specifically develop and drive the diversity and inclusion objectives included in the Strategic Plan
- Drive strategy throughout the enterprise
- Perform policy review, racial/ethnic impact statements, and internal discrimination investigation fact-findings
- Support public and private partnerships to assist in sustaining new initiatives

During this phase, the SWOT Assessment and the Disparity Elimination Workplan was developed to address the findings and served as the foundation of the administration's 2012-2014 Cultural Competence Workplan. To address the need for greater inclusion of youth and family perspectives, JR youth were included, for the first time, on the Governor's Partnership Council's Youth Subcommittee to add a more inclusive voice for Juvenile Justice. This group evolved into the JR Youth Voice statewide committee with local facility United Youth Councils with additional youth members from group homes, institutions, parole programs, and youth and family members who have completed their rehabilitation treatment services.

During Phase II SCC, DVR and OJJ were merged with JR under the leadership of Assistant Secretary John Clayton to form the current Juvenile Justice and Rehabilitation Administration. Phase II also includes actions taken to ensure that DVR SCC and OJJ started planning steps to complete assessments to support future strategies to support diversity and inclusion goals.

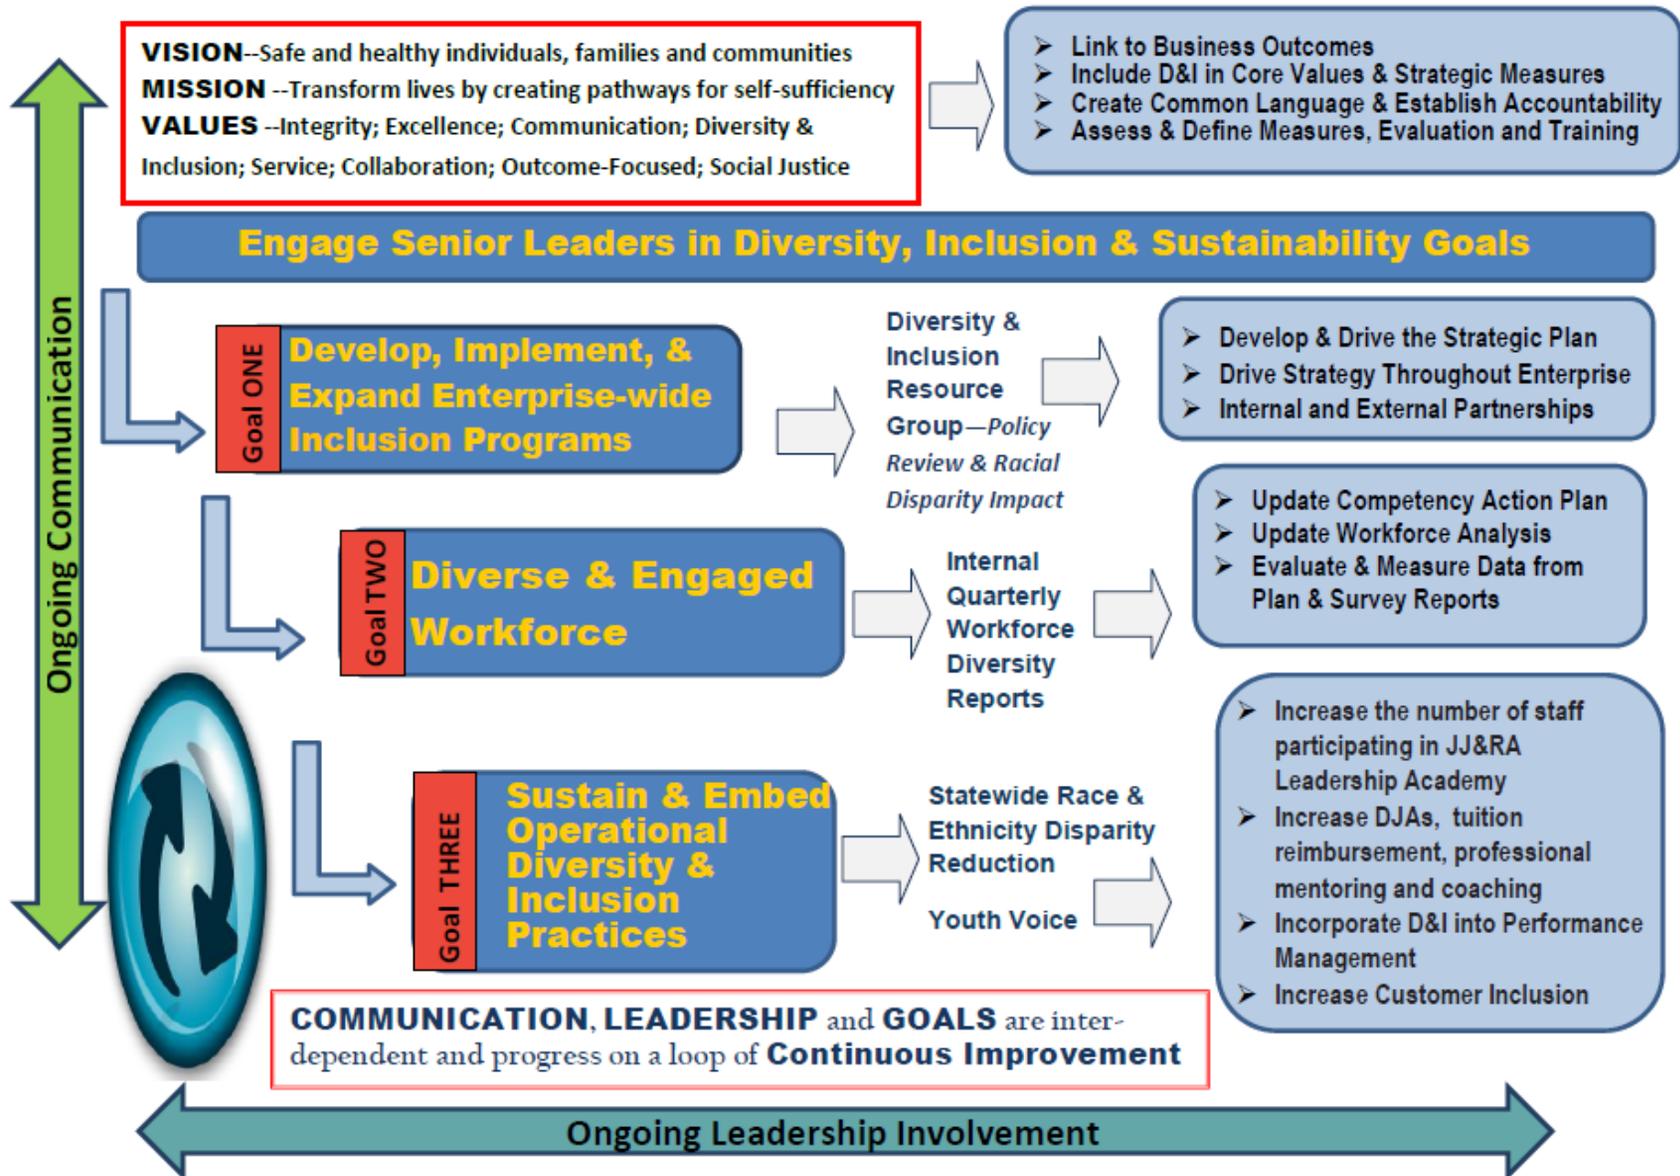

The following action steps were taken:

- JJ&RA created the position of Chief, Office of Equity, Diversity & Inclusion to operationalize inclusion principles enterprise-wide
- 98.2% of the entire JRA team completed Diversity & inclusion Training
- The JJ&RA 3-month Leadership Academy was launched and the initial cohorts graduated
- Graduates continue to work with their selected mentors and participate in their developmental job projects
- Extensive senior leadership focus was directed to link vision, mission and values with business outcomes
- Focused leadership on engaging managers and staff in including diversity and inclusion into core values, practices and strategic measures
- Common language and accountability processes were established
- Diversity & Inclusion principles were included in the strategic plan measures-Results Washington measures and DSHS service measures are coordinated to drive strategy throughout the enterprise and with internal and external partners
- Quarterly JJ&RA Workforce Diversity Reports developed in partnership with HR
- Internal ACT Databases and Reporting updates to allow all reports to be disaggregated by race, ethnicity, gender and age

PHASE III – Started in 2014 and continuing through 2016 is focused on sustaining and embedding operational diversity and inclusion practices initiated in Phase I and II of JJ&RA’s Cultural Competence Planning Initiative. The communication strategies, leadership commitment and outcome based goals reflected in the plan are inter-dependent and progress on a loop of continuous improvement. During Phase III, the following action steps are continuing:

- Youth input serves as a resource for direct services staff interview panels.
- Youth serve on Juvenile Justice Reform conference panels, treatment plan groups, community facility awareness presentations, WA Supreme Court presentations, new employee trainings, culture groups and educational project and grant teams
- Original SWOT indicators updated in an automated report to support continuing need to monitor and correct measures at identified decision points and points of disparate outcomes
- Demonstrated leadership commitment is tied directly to quarterly performance measures. Effective measurement of diversity efforts showing progress with goals established in Results Washington, Cultural Competence and Affirmative Action Reports
- Employee engagement and effective communication is measured by the DSHS Employee Survey; monitored and actively addressed with Assistant Secretary and Director-level field visits, area forums and increased regional staff meetings
- Increased opportunities for professional development, continuous education, and skills development have been expanded through increased access to the JJ&RA Leadership Academy, Excellence Workshops, and LEAN Training
- Demonstrated commitment to community partnerships, cross-system collaborations and customer service through increased partnerships and outreach with Tribes, Human Rights Commissions and community-based groups

Phase III-The JJ&RA Diversity & Inclusion Strategy Roadmap

PHASE III: JJ&RA Cultural Competence Goals, Activities and Outcomes as Related to Enhanced Culturally and Linguistically

Appropriate Services (CLAS) Federal Guidelines

JJ&RA divisions will ensure that customers receive from all staff members, equitable, effective, understandable, and respectful care that is provided in a manner compatible with the customer's cultural values, practices and preferred language. Equity represents the highest level of fair, inclusive, and respectful interactions between JJ&RA and our customers. Ensuring fairness, embracing difference and promoting participation through respectful communication, individual and organizational accountability, and providing culturally and linguistically appropriate treatment and services are foundational to our vision and mission.

For Phase III of JJ&RA's Cultural Competence Plan, we have organized the current goals, activities and outcomes around the enhanced National CLAS Standards to:

1. Be in alignment with the Governor's implementation plan for the CLAS Standards statewide
2. Unify the recently integrated organizations of DVR, SCC, OJJ and JR under common language, accountability, assessment and performance measures

The integration of the different divisions still allows for each of the divisions to maintain their own focused plan while working together toward common goals and using common assessment areas to form baseline measures as their starting point. The cultural/linguistic competence areas assessed administration-wide include measuring effectiveness in:

1. Identifying racial and ethnic groups that compose JJ&RA's customers, families, staff and communities
2. Engaging and including customer feedback especially for purposes of ensuring desired outcomes
3. Identifying and documenting racial/ethnic inequities
4. Examining decision point factors and determining if services are working or not working
5. Ensuring that adverse impacts and unintended consequences are prevented or minimized
6. Examining improvements and reforms needed to ensure positive impacts on equity, diversity and inclusion with customers and staff
7. Embedding sustainability
8. Identifying success indicators

Phase III of the JJ&RA Cultural Competence Plan, includes the initial plans for SCC and DVR based on assessments completed December 2013 with the included updated plan from JR based on previous assessments in 2010 and 2012. All division plans demonstrate that providing culturally/linguistically competent treatment and services will assist JJ&RA in addressing the desired outcomes for organizational cultural and linguistic competence in accordance with the DSHS Guidelines for Cultural Competence, 2011, including:

1. Proactive responsiveness to current and projected demographics
2. Eliminating long-standing racial and ethnic disparities in juvenile justice, accessibility of employment and training services to persons with disabilities and improved outcomes for civilly committed individuals
3. Improving the quality of services and outcomes
4. Meeting legislative, regulatory and accreditation mandates
5. Gaining a higher level trust and collaboration with the communities we serve
6. Decreasing the likelihood of liability claims

Completed and ongoing action steps to integrate current strategic planning processes for all divisions under JJ&RA include:

- Vision, mission, values, and measures developed administration-wide
- Administration vision, mission, and values translated and linked to equity, diversity and inclusion objectives
- Demonstrated the connection between objectives and business outcomes
- Embedding diversity and inclusion into core values and required strategic measures
- Created common language throughout the administration
- Assessments developed and completed
- Established leadership accountability for data informed decision-making and accomplishment of agreed upon objectives
- Defining and sharing measures, evaluation and training standards throughout organization on a continuous basis
- Evaluation criteria and processes developed
